Middle East Forum

With roots going back to 1990, the Middle East Forum has been an independent tax-exempt 501(c) (3) nonprofit organization based in Philadelphia since 1994. Mission: The Middle East Forum promotes American interests in the Middle East and protects Western values from Middle Eastern threats. The Forum sees the region — with its profusion of dictatorships, radical ideologies, existential conflicts, border disagreements, corruption, political violence, and weapons of mass destruction — as a major source of problems for the United States. Accordingly, it urges active measures to protect Americans and their allies. U.S. interests in the Middle East include fighting radical Islam; working for Palestinian acceptance of Israel; robustly asserting U.S. interests vis-à-vis Saudi Arabia; developing strategies to deal with Iraq and contain Iran; and monitoring the advance of Islamism in Turkey. Domestically, the Forum combats lawful Islamism; protects the freedom of public speech of anti-Islamist authors, activists, and publishers; and works to improve Middle East studies in North America. Methods: The Middle East Forum realizes its goals through three main mechanisms: Intellectual: The Forum provides context, insights, and policy recommendations through the Middle East Quarterly, staff writings, public lectures, radio and television appearances, and conference calls. Operational: The Forum exerts an active influence through its projects, including Campus Watch, Islamist Watch, Legal Project, Washington Project, Apartheid Monitor, and Shillman/Ginsburg Writing Fellowship Program. Philanthropic: The Forum annually distributes US$1.5 million in earmarked donations through its Education Fund, helping researchers, writers, investigators, and activists around the world.

Newton D. & Rochelle F. Becker Foundations and Charitable Trust

The Newton D. & Rochelle F. Becker Foundation's tax filings describe its mission statement as conducting philanthropy "directed to the Jewish community, particularly Jewish organizations and programs that combat media bias against Israel and the Jewish people, Israel advocacy, and democracy defense."

Newton Becker served as president of the foundation prior to his passing in 2012. Some of the foundation's board members include Marvin Schotland, president of the Jewish Community Foundation of Los Angeles; Allan Cutrow, former president of the Jewish Community Foundation of Los Angeles; and Mark Karlan, a board member for StandWithUs, a pro-Israel advocacy group.

The Newton D. & Rochelle F. Becker Foundation has contributed millions of dollars to a numerous neoconservative pro-Israel groups with deep roots and connections to the Islamophobia network, including the Jewish Institute for National Security Affairs, or JINSA; Middle East Media Research Institute, or MEMRI; and the Zionist Organization of America, or ZOA. It has also contributed millions of dollars to anti-Islam organizations such as the Middle East Forum, Center for Security Policy, David Horowitz Freedom Center, Clarion Project, and Act! For America.

The Becker Foundation, Becker Family Foundation, and Charitable Trust have contributed $1,411,000 between 2001 and 2012 to anti-Islam organizations such as the Middle East Forum ($464,000), Center for Security Policy ($405,000), David Horowitz Freedom Center ($87,000), Clarion Project ($80,000), and Act! For America Education ($75,000).

Middle East Forum

The Middle East Forum, or MEF, is a conservative think tank founded by Daniel Pipes in 1990. According to the organization's website, its mission is to "promote American interests in the Middle East and protect Western values from Middle Eastern threats."

The forum had more than $4.6 million in revenue in 2012. It relies upon its publication, the Middle East Quarterly, and a network of monitoring programs - including Campus Watch, Islamist Watch, and the Legal Project - to inculcate fears of "militant Islam" and to monitor the people and organizations whose views contradict Pipes. This organization echoes the alarmist rhetoric of Daniel Pipes by branding Muslims, Sharia, and even the instruction of Arabic as affronts to American freedom.

The Middle East Forum is at the center of the Islamophobia network. MEF has received more than $12 million in funding from donors in the network since 2001, and in turn, it has donated funds to organizations featured in the Islamophobia network, including Zuhdi Jasser's American Islamic Forum for Democracy; Frank Gaffney's Center for Security Policy; Robert Spencer's Jihad Watch; and Steven Emerson's Investigative Project on Terrorism. From 2009 to 2012, the highest recipients of MEF funding have been Investigative Project on Terrorism ($1,409,585) and Center for Security Policy ($260,000).

RECEIVED: $12,593,745

KNOWN CONNECTIONS:

Center for Security Policy

The Center for Security Policy received $300,000 in funding from the Middle East Forum from 2008 to 2012.

David Horowitz

The Middle East Forum contributes financially to the David Horowitz Freedom Center.

Germany's Jewish Leadership vs. Israel

by Daniel Pipes

Israel Hayom

September 12, 2021

https://www.meforum.org/62636/germany-jewish-leadership-vs-israel

Germany's political parties have their differences, to be sure. But they can all agree on one thing: that the upstart civilizationist party called the Alternative for Germany (Alternative für Deutschland, AfD) should not have any representation in the Bundestag (parliament).

It's not hard to see why, as AfD's brazen outspokenness in favor of Western civilization, the United States, and Israel intensely annoys them. So, as elections loom, the other parties are ganging together to discredit the AfD. Given that this is Germany, the single most potent method is to tar it with antisemitism. And to do that most effectively, Jews must lead the charge.

That explains why Germany's Central Council of Jews (Zentralrat der Juden, ZdJ) initiated a document that no fewer than 68 other Jewish organizations endorsed. Titled "Jews against the AfD," it calls on Germans to vote for any party other than the AfD. Its message is not subtle: "Vote for an unquestionably democratic party [zweifelsfrei demokratische Partei] on September 26, 2021 and help banish the AfD from the German Bundestag."

32 of the 69 organizations endorsing the "Jews against the AfD" document.

The document, issued on September 9, accuses the AfD of "wreaking havoc" in parliament and calls it the home of "antisemites and right-wing extremists" who engage in "racism and misanthropy." To top it all, the signatories even claim to be "convinced that the AfD is an ... anti-religious [religionsfeindliche] party."

Those organizations also include some big and established international names, including the American Jewish Committee, the B'nai B'rith, the Claims Conference, the European Jewish Congress, the Jewish National Fund, Limmud, the Maccabi Games, the Ronald S. Lauder Foundation, the Union of Progressive Jews, and the World Jewish Congress.

For starters, it bears noting that all German and American tax-exempt organizations endorsing this statement are very clearly breaking the law by advocating how votes should be cast. The document's headline includes a childish graphic of a downward arrow, reversing the AfD's upward one. Oddly, the ZdJ not once spells out the party's name in this document, just "AfD," its initials, as though mentioning the full name would sully it.

A day later, the organization Jews in the AfD (Juden in der AfD, JAfD) responded to this blast. It started by noting that the ZdJ gets nearly its entire €13 million annual budget from the government – so, of course, it toes the government's line. It also notes that "only state-financed [German] Jewish organizations took part in this appeal. Independent Jewish organs such as the monthly newspaper Jüdische Rundschau and conservative Jewish associations such as Chabad Germany are not represented."

Chaim Noll: The ZdJ "administers the country's Jews. ... That Jews are subject to the government's wishes is the specific tragedy of the Jews in Germany."

It gets worse. The Central Council of Jews, notes Chaim Noll, a German-Israeli author, "is an unique institution that does not exist in other countries and also is unknown in Judaism. It is one of the state institutions financed by the federal government, it administers the country's Jews. ... That Jews are subject to the government's wishes is the specific tragedy of the Jews in Germany; in other countries, Jewish communities are autonomous."

As for substance, JAfD accurately argues that "the AfD has done more to protect Jewish life than any other party in the German Bundestag." Specifically, it successfully initiated a ban on Hezbollah and the BDS movement, and it is working to defund UNRWA and abolish labeling requirements for Jewish products from the West Bank.

I personally witnessed this when sitting in the Bundestag on March 14, 2019, as a vote was taken urging the German government to vote favorably for Israel in the United Nations. AfD's members voted 89 percent in favor of this motion, about 350 times more so than the ¼ of 1 percent of the ruling parties who joined them.

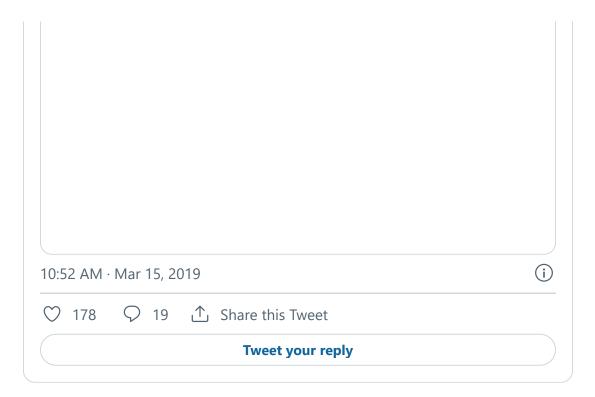

#Germany's parliament voted yesterday on a resolution to vote favorably to Israel at the UN. 1 member out of 398 in the government coalition (2 circles on left) voted in favor. 89% of #AfD & 86% of FDP voted in favor.

Me: Merkel just talks, AfD delivers.

This spat illustrates a deep truth about Europe's sad Jewish leaders: beholden to the Establishment, they sacrifice most of their Zionist inclinations to stay in its good graces. (For more detail on this pattern, see my article "Europe's Jews vs. Israel.") So avidly do they bow before the government, they even convinced Israel's current ambassador to Germany, Jeremy Issacharoff, to breach diplomatic protocol, openly attack the AfD, and defend Germany's anti-Israel parties.

In the end, however, Europe's supine Jewish leadership will find itself isolated from its own constituents and opposed by the people and Government of Israel, all of whom will eventually recognize their true friends in German politics. The AfD is far from perfect but it does best fit that description.

New Shillman/Ginsburg Fellows Appointed

January 9, 2014

https://www.meforum.org/3714/new-shillman-ginsburg-fellows-appointed

The Middle East Forum is pleased to announce the appointment of Phyllis Chesler, Mark Durie, Cynthia Farahat, Gary Gambill, and Dawn Perlmutter as Shillman/Ginsburg Writing Fellows.

The Writing Fellowship Program is made possible by the generous support of Dr. Bob Shillman and Stan and Arlene Ginsburg.

Expanding on the Forum's research and writing on the Middle East, Islamism, and related issues, the Shillman/Ginsburg Program provides timely analysis by specialists on the most pressing problems. Shillman/Ginsburg fellows shine a light on controversial and difficult issues others avoid – questioning assumptions, provoking thought, and offering new solutions for policy makers.

Phyllis Chesler is an analyst of gender issues in the Middle East. A psychotherapist and feminist, she co-founded the Association for Women in Psychology in 1969 and is emerita professor of psychology at The City University of New York. She has published 15 books, most recently The New Anti-Semitism (2003) and An American Bride in Kabul (2013). Chesler's articles have appeared in numerous publications, including the Middle East Quarterly, Encyclopedia Judaica, International Herald Tribune, National Review, New York Times, Times of London, Washington Post and Weekly Standard. She has served as an expert courtroom witness for Muslim women facing honor-based violence and her works have been translated into 13 languages.

Rev. Mark Durie is a theologian, human rights activist and pastor of an Anglican church. He has published on the language and culture of the Acehnese (a Muslim people of Indonesia), Christian–Muslim relations, and religious freedom. Rev. Durie holds a PhD in Linguistics from the Australian National University and is a graduate of the Australian College of Theology. He has held visiting appointments at the University of Leiden, MIT, UCLA and Stanford, was elected a Fellow of the Australian Academy of the Humanities in 1992, and was awarded an Australian Centennial Medal in 2001 for contributions to linguistics. He has spoken for the Middle East Forum.

Cynthia Farahat is an Egyptian political activist, writer and researcher. Cofounder of the Misr El-Umm (2003-06) and the Liberal Egyptian (2006-08) parties, which stood for secularism, anti-Islamism, and peace with Israel, she was under long-term surveillance by the State Security Intelligence Service before seeking political asylum in the United States in 2011. Ms Farahat worked with Friedrich Naumann Foundation for Liberty in Cairo, and the Center for Security Policy and Coptic Solidarity. She has testified before the U.S. House of Representatives and received an award from the Endowment for Middle East Truth. She is co-author of two books in Arabic and, among other journals, has published in the Middle East Quarterly, National Review Online, and The Washington Times.

Gary C. Gambill, formerly editor of Middle East Intelligence Bulletin (1999–2004) and Mideast Monitor (2006–09), is a political analyst specializing in the Arab world, particularly Syria and Lebanon. He has a BS in Mathematics from the University of Wisconsin and an MA in Arab Studies from Georgetown University. He is a frequent contributor to Foreign Policy and The National Interest, among other publications.

Dawn Perlmutter is an expert in religious violence and terrorism. She is an adjunct professor in the Forensic Medicine Department at Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine. She is the author of True Believers, A Symbolic Anthropological Study of Islamist Culture (CRC Press forthcoming 2014) and Investigating Religious Terrorism and Ritualistic Crimes (CRC Press 2004). Her writings have appeared in numerous publications, including the Middle East Quarterly. She has been interviewed by the Fox News Channel, NBC, CBS, NPR, CBC, BBC, and The Learning Channel. Ms. Perlmutter frequently advises and trains law enforcement agencies, including the FBI, and presents expert witness testimony. She is founder and director of Symbol & Ritual Intelligence and a member of the Vidocq Society, an exclusive crime-solving organization.

"We are pleased to add these five analysts of diverse experience to the already strong Shillman/Ginsburg Writing Fellowship Program," said Daniel Pipes, president of the Middle East Forum. "Each one of them brings the expertise to offer solutions to critical issues at a momentous time."

The Middle East Forum promotes American interests in the Middle East and protects Western values at home through intellectual, activist, and philanthropic efforts.

FACTSHEET: MIDDLE EAST FORUM

by Bridge Initiative Team Published on 14 Aug 2018

IMPACT: The Middle East Forum is a right-wing anti-Islam think tank that spreads misinformation, creates "watchlists" targeting academics, and advocates hawkish foreign policy. MEF provides funding to numerous anti-Muslim organizations and has provided legal services to a number of anti-Muslim activists including Geert Wilders and Tommy Robinson.

The Middle East Forum (MEF) is a non-profit organization led by Daniel Pipes, that "promotes American interests in the Middle East and protects Western values from Middle Eastern threats." It views the Middle East as an amalgam of "dictatorships, radical ideologies, existential conflicts..." and focuses on ways to defeat "radical Islam" abroad and "lawful Islamism" domestically. It pursues these goals through policy recommendations, public lectures, television appearances, and distributing about $2 million annually in grants. The Center for American Progress describes the MEF as a "controversial far-right think-tank that is known for its anti-Islam views and hawkish foreign policy recommendations."

According to 2018 tax filings, the total functional expenses for the MEF were $5,195,431. The organization has provided hundreds of thousands of dollars in grants to a number of anti-Muslim groups. In 2012 and 2013, MEF gave nearly $2.5 million to the Gatestone Institute. In 2015, MEF provided $100,000 to Center for Security Policy (CSP) and $10,000 to the David Horowitz Freedom Center (DHFC). MEF has also provided grants to the Investigative Project on Terrorism and the American-Islamic Forum for Democracy (AIFD).

In 2016 and 2018, MEF gave $40,000 and $25,000 respectfully to the Endowment for Middle East Truth (EMET), a "think tank and policy center with an unabashedly pro-America and pro-Israel stance" that provides briefings to Congress. Pipes, along with Frank Gaffney of CSP, are members of the organization's advisory board. In the same year, MEF gave another $36,000 to Defending America for Knowledge and Action (DAFKA), an organization headed by Lee Kaplan, an investigative journalist and contributor to Front Page Magazine, a project of the DHFC.

The MEF has received millions of dollars from Donors Capital Fund ($6,768,000), William Rosenwald Family Fund, Middle Road Foundation, and Abstraction Fund. These groups have also funded Investigative Project on Terrorism, Clarion Project, the DHFC, CSP, Jihad Watch and the AIFD.

Primary Menu Search

The MEF has a number of projects including Islamist Watch, Campus Watch, The Legal Project, Shillman/Ginsburg Writing Fellowship Program, Jihad Intel, Campus Speakers Bureau and Washington Project.

Islamist Watch was created to stop "Islamists" in the West "quietly, lawfully, [and] peacefully ... [imposing] aspects of Islamic law, win[ning] special privileges for themselves, shut[ting] down criticism of Islam, creat[ing] Muslim-only zones, and depriv[ing] women and non-Muslims of their full civil rights." It seeks to "widen the 'war on terror' from violent extremists to non-violent extremists" and pursues its goals through a number of avenues including "think tank research, textbooks, campus activities, the media, philanthropy, political lobbying, lawsuits, [and] feature movies." An October 2019 piece by Dr. Andreas Krieg stated that "arguments about 'Islamism' have always been rooted in a racism and irrational fear that conceives of the Muslim world as a flat surface to be treated as a threat—this hasn't changed." The article also argued that many western right-wing groups "make a living out of Islamist fear mongering," and specifically noted that MEF has received money from the United Arab Emirates (UAE) to host politically-motivated events.

Islamist Watch contains a compilation of "extensive profiles of organizations, activists and clerics belonging [to] various Islamist networks." Among the organizations listed are the Council on American-Islamic Relations (CAIR), the largest Muslim civil liberties organization, the Muslim Public Affairs Council, and the Muslims Student Association. CAIR has disputed such claims, but Islamist Watch continues to accuse it and other organizations of trying to infiltrate the U.S. and impose Islamic law, perpetuating the anti-Muslim trope that Islam is a political ideology that seeks to dominate the West through "stealth jihad," rather than a religion.

Campus Watch "reviews and critiques Middle East studies in North America, with an aim to [improve] them" by critiquing the "teaching and scholarship of academic specialists." The project has been criticized by the Middle East Studies Association for its "defamatory attacks on educators and researchers in the field."

In November 2002, Campus Watch was involved in a controversy over its "blacklisting project" whereby it "posted 'dossiers' on eight scholars who ... criticize US foreign policy and the Israeli occupation." In response, approximately 100 professors asked to have their names added to the list in opposition to the project. The "dossiers" were subsequently dropped from the page. However, Campus Watch continues to keep a list of recommended "Professors to Avoid" and a list of the professors who stood against the dossiers in 2002 under the title "Solidarity with Apologists"

The goal of Jihad Intel is to educate "law enforcement and the general public with intelligence on radical Islam and Islamic terrorist groups" and to provide "local and state police with tools to connect the dots before major terrorist incidents."

The Legal Project seeks to "protect researchers and analysts who work on the topics of terrorism, terrorist funding, and radical Islam from lawsuits designed to silence their exercise of free speech." In 2006, The Legal Project defended Steven Emerson in a lawsuit mounted against them by The Islamic Society of Boston, which alleged he and 16 others "waged a media war against the project." The lawsuit was later withdrawn, however. In June 2011, Dutch anti-Islam politician, Geert Wilders was acquitted of inciting hatred against Muslims. Wilders thanked the Legal Project for their "help, advice and [assistance]," and the Legal Project acknowledged that it "worked on Wilders' behalf and has raised substantial funds for his defense."

In 2018, MEF stated it provided the funding for British anti-Muslim activist's, Tommy Robinson, legal defense through its Legal Project. Additionally, MEF organized two "Free Tommy" rallies, one of which turned violent. The think-tank also covered the travel costs of Rep. Paul Gosar (R-AZ) who spoke at one of the rallies in London.

Washington Project attempts to influence "U.S. policy ... through intensive in-person contacts in the capital." Its 2017 agenda included narrowing the definition of "Palestinian Refugee," increasing extreme vetting of Muslim immigrants, "defeating radical Islam," teaching law enforcement about Jihad, and improving Countering Violent Extremism (CVE) programs.

In recent years, MEF has expanded its focus when it comes to international campaigns. In September 2020, MEF announced that it had played a "key role" in influencing the Department of Justice's decision to designate AJ+, a US-based subsidiary of Al Jazeera media network, to register as a foreign agent under the Foreign Agents Registration Act (FARA). In response, Al Jazeera condemned the decision stating it "appears the designation was a precondition of the United Arab Emirates (UAE) to "normalise" diplomatic ties with Israel." MEF stated that the designation was a result of a "multi-year effort by the Middle East Forum to counter Qatar's toxic influence campaign in the U.S. through its media arm," and described the gulf kingdom as a "a malign Islamist influence across the globe."

(iii) the University of Arizona; (iv) the University of California at Berkeley; and (v) Yale University." A September 2019 piece in the New York Times focusing on the government's inquiry into the Duke-UNC Consortium for Middle East Studies described the investigation as "part of a far-reaching investigation into the program by the department, which under Betsy DeVos, the education secretary, has become increasingly aggressive in going after perceived anti-Israel bias in higher education." A September 2019 piece in Inside Higher Ed stated that the Middle East Studies Association (MESA) joined with 17 other scholarly associations and wrote a letter expressing "considerable concern and surprise" regarding the department's intervention at UNC/Duke. The letter stated, "Your letter, in tone and content, suggests an intention not only to significantly narrow the scope of Title VI activities, but also to micromanage them."

MEF's research has been used to pursue politically-motivated campaigns targeting Muslim humanitarian organizations and organizations that entered into partnerships with them. In May 2020, Sam Westrop, Director of MEF's Islamist Watch, claimed that InterAction, the largest alliance of international NGOs and partners in the United States whose members include the American Red Cross, Islamic Relief USA, Oxfam America, and Save the Children, "works to lobby Congress on behalf of dangerous, bigoted Islamist charities tied to extremism and terror." In 2017, InterAction launched the Together Project, to "confront discrimination or targeted prejudicial regulations in the U.S. due to their operating principles or religious faith." Westrop alledged that the project was really "a coalition of extremist-linked Islamist charities that work together under an InterAction banner," with the "implicit goal...to stifle criticism of Islamist charitable fronts and undermine terrorism-finance laws."

MEF has led numerous campaigns targeting Islamic Relief Worldwide, an international aid agency that provides humanitarian relief and development programmes in over 40 countries, repeatedly accusing the humanitarian relief agency of being tied to and/or supporting terrorism. The Charity & Security Network has noted that Islamic Relief has "been audited more than 500 times, none of which found any evidence to support these allegations" made by MEF as well as a number of other anti-Muslim organizations. A 2018 article in Civil Society News involved an interview with then-chief executive of IRW, Naser Haghamed, who stated the audits took place in the last 10 years. In regards to the accusations of ties to terrorism, Haghamed stated, "we abhor terrorism and categorically deny any links with any terrorist organisation or individuals. We have lost staff to acts of terror and violence in many parts of the world – this has made us more determined to ensure that aid reaches its intended recipients and doesn't fall into the wrong hands."

In recent years, MEF has also produced commentary and been actively involved in the growing anti-Muslim movement in India. In the September 2020 email from MEF to its supporters, Roman stated the organization had provided research for a case in India's Supreme Court. The case in question regards a t.v. show by Sudarshan News titled "UPSC Jihad," a t.v. program claiming to reveal how Muslims are "infiltrating government service." A September 2020 piece in Newslaundry, noted that many of the claims in the show "have been borrowed from an article that appeared in Firstpost in late August," authored by Sam Westrop of MEF. In the August 2020 article, Westrop claims "radical Islamism makes use of international networks of support, and relies on infrastructure closely intertwined with civil society," and that today "western Islamist charities, funded by western governments and linked to international Islamist movements...operate throughout India."

In February 2021, the Indian American Muslim Council (IAMC) issued a statement responding to the "ludicrous attacks" from MEF and its "Hindu American nationalist allies." The statement said "Hindu nationalist front organizations in the US have entered into a collaboration with MEF, in order to blunt the impact of IAMC and other organizations advocating for the defense of human rights and religious freedom in India." The statement was in response to an article published in the Sunday Guardian Live by Benjamin Baird, who works for MEF's Islamist Watch project, in which he claimed that IAMC had "forged allegiances with Islamists, including extremists with ties to murderous terrorist groups." An earlier piece in December 2020 by Westrop published in Newsweek also accused IAMC of being an "Islamist group" with ties to "terrorist organization in India."

In a December 2017 email to the organization's listsery, Pipes discussed "Extreme Vetting of Muslim Immigrants," and announced that the MEF had "produced a detailed plan to identify and weed out Islamist immigrants, differentiating them from moderate Muslims." Additionally, he stated that MEF had met with "eight senior Trump administration officials and the House and Senate committees on Homeland Security to discuss implementation of the plan," and that "a congressional bill is in the works." A June 2017 piece in the Guardian noted that legal experts warned that "extreme vetting" measures were giving rise to "discriminatory conduct by government officials, unlawful searches at border checkpoints and other constitutional violations."

simply no evidence to support the allegation of terrorism" and stated that "the sum awarded should be such as to leave interested onlookers in no doubt as to the baselessness of the Defendants' charge against him." A 2017 piece in Middle East Eye noted that over the last few years Stand for Peace had "launched a stream of scathing attacks against Muslims...many of them well-known Islamic charities and other prominent figures.

In October 2019, Patricia McNulty, the former acting director of development/program director at the MEF filed a complaint against the MEF, Pipes, Roman, and Matthew Bennett, citing "discrimination, harassment, retaliation, and the hostile work environment" which ultimately led to her "unlawful termination." A November 2019 piece in the Pennsylvania Record notes that McNulty "claims she was paid more than $34,000 less per year than her male counterpart with the same job in addition to being subjected to sexual assault and harassment by her male supervisor." The lawsuit stated that Roman sexually assaulted McNulty, and that throughout her employment McNulty would have to contend with Roman's "inappropriate sexually suggestive conduct and comments."

There have been a number of other lawsuits alleging employment discrimination against the MEF, Pipes, Roman, and Bennett, including one filed by Lisa Barbounis, who was listed as a witness in McNulty's lawsuit. The lawsuit stated that Barbounis, who held the title of Executive Liaison at MEF, was subjected to a "campaign of sexual harassment and abuse" by Roman. It also stated that "because of the severe discrimination and harassment" to which he subjected Barbounis to, Roman "was forced to discontinue visiting MEF headquarters" in Philadelphia.

Support to anti-Islam politicians in Europe

Geert Wilders

In 2012 it emerged that both David Horowitz (and Daniel Pipes via the Middle East Forum's Legal Project) had both given money to Dutch anti-Islam politician Geert Wilders. [2] While declining to specify amounts, according to Reuters, Horowitz said he had paid Wilders "a good fee" for making two speeches, one in Los Angeles and one at Temple University in Philadelphia. He also paid "a special security fee of about $1,500 to the Philadelphia police department" for security costs during student protests generated by the event and for overnight accommodation for four or five Dutch government bodyguards accompanying Wilders on a 2009 US trip. [2]

During Wilders' visit to Los Angeles, the David Horowitz Freedom Center organized an event at which Danish cartoons lampooning the Prophet Mohammed were auctioned but Horowitz claimed he did not remember how much money this event raised or what happened to the proceeds. Reuters reported that while former officials from Wilders' Freedom Party (known as PVV) - which is not publically funded and therefore is able to operate less transparently than other Dutch parties - have said it relies almost entirely on foreign donations, both Horowitz and Pipes deny funding political activities in the Netherlands. The non-profit, tax exempt organisations they run are, under U.S. tax laws, forbidden from giving direct financial backing to any political candidate or party but may sponsor policy debates. [2]

In September 2015 however a Dutch interior ministry disclosure revealed that Wilders' PVV party had received €18,110 ($20,000) from the centre on 28 March 2014. This was the result of a new law requiring parties to publish grants above 4500 euros. [3] The PVV had previously resisted such disclosure.

Funding counterjihad activists

Politico reported in September 2010 that the Center was funding Robert Spencer's Jihad Watch website:

Though it was not listed on the public tax reports filed by Horowitz's Freedom Center, POLITICO has confirmed that the lion's share of the $920,000 it provided over the past three years to Jihad Watch came from [Joyce] Chernick, whose husband, Aubrey Chernick, has a net worth of $750 million, as a result of his 2004 sale to IBM of a software company he created, and a security consulting firm he now owns. [66]

The US Conservative Transparency database shows that the Horowitz Freedom Center made three donations between 2010 and 2012 to counterjihad writer and activist Robert Spencer's Jihad Watch:

- -$45,500 in 2012
- -$95,000 in 2011
- -$30,000 in 2010 [67]

2013

Overseas, the DHFC gave $581,058 to the Middle East and North Africa region; the purpose cited was 'Education on Middle Eastern conflicts and coverage of events in the region'. [68]

2014

In 2014 the DHFC granted US $10,000 to Freedom X, an organisation that claims to 'protect conservative values and religious freedom of expression', explicitly declaring to be fight against 'islamic indoctrination'. [69]

Overseas, the DHFC gave $249,125 to the Middle East and North Africa region; the purpose cited was 'Education on Middle Eastern conflicts and coverage of events in the region'.
